Travel Information

Nagaoka is located at the center of Niigata Prefecture and can be reached in about 90 minutes from Tokyo and about 20 minutes from Niigata on the Jo-etsu Shinkansen. Nagaoka is located at the branching point of Hokuriku Expressway and Kan-etsu Expressway and is thus an important access point for the Sea of Japan coast from both the Tokyo and Osaka areas.

Being the center of the Shinanogawa Technopolis, recognized by the Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry, Nagaoka also values its international and cultural ties.

Travelling from the airports to the place of IRG#34

1. Location of Niigata Prefecture

The place of IRG#34, Nagaoka University of Technology (NUT) is not near of Tokyo. The city location is shown in following picture. Please don't expect 1 hour travel from Narita airport (most popular international airport around Tokyo). The nearest international airport around Nagaoka University of Technology is Niigata airport, but regular flight is only available between Seoul.

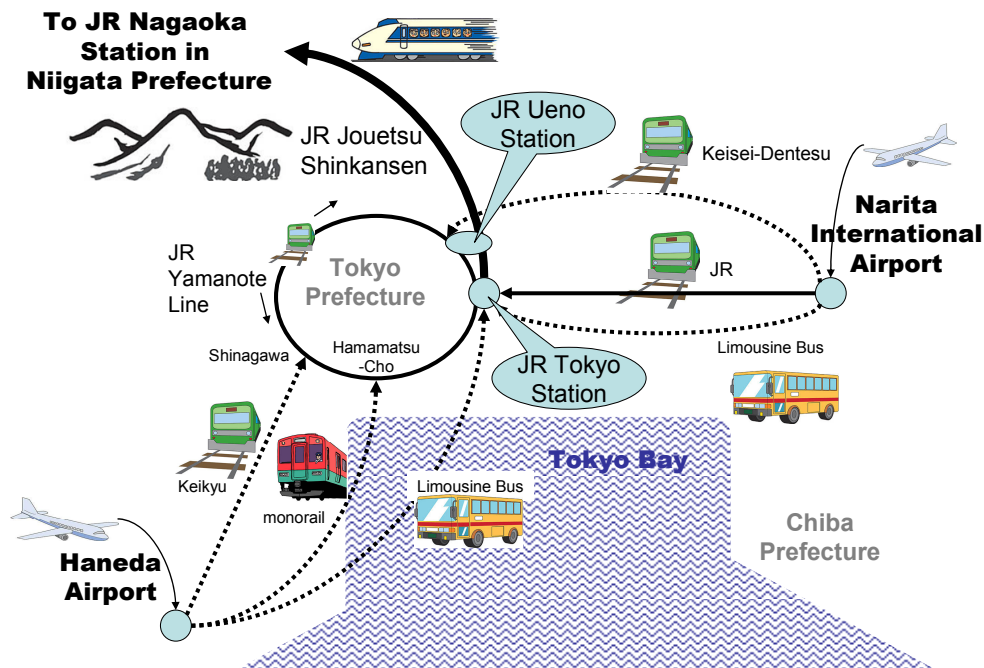

Location of Niigata prefecture in Japan

For brief understanding of the distance, following is the time to travel (by railway) from several international airports to the place of IRG#34.

2. From Airports around Tokyo to JR Tokyo Station

If you've arrived at the airport around the Tokyo, you should travel to Japanese Railway (JR) Tokyo station, to ride on Shinkansen (新幹線) express. You should set aside 1.5 hour between the airport and JR Tokyo station. There are several public transports between the airports to JR Tokyo station. If you have reserved ticket for Shinkansen, we recommend to use railway (JR or Keisei), because frequent traffic jam around Tokyo makes the arrival time of Limousine Bus delayed (sometimes 1 or 2 hour!).

Airport, Railway and Bus around Tokyo area

2.1. From Narita airport to JR Tokyo Station

2.1.1. JR Lines

2.1.1.1. Narita Express

JR Narita Express is an express train from Narita to Tokyo, the time of travel is about 65 min, and the fee is about JPY 3000 (USD30). All seats are reserved. The ticket can be purchased at the entrance, without prior reservation.

Time table of Narita Express \(N'EX\) from Narita to Tokyo area.

2.2. From Haneda airport to JR Tokyo Station

2.2.1. Keikyu – JR Line

There is a shortcut ticket gate between Keikyu platform and JR platform. The time of travel is about 15 minutes (by rapid) or 30 minutes (by local) the fee is JPY 400 (USD4).

http://www.haneda-access.com/train/timetable/from_h.html (Mon-Fri)

http://www.haneda-access.com/train/timetable/from_k.html (Sat-Sun)

1 departure per 15 or 20 minutes.

From JR-Shinagawa station to JR-Tokyo station, JR Yamanote Line (山手線, stopping 4 stations before Tokyo), JR Keihin-Tohoku Line (京浜東北線, stopping 4 stations before Tokyo), JR Yokosuka Line (横須賀線, stopping 1 station before Tokyo) are available. The time of travel from Shinagawa to Tokyo is about 7 ~ 11 minutes, and the fee is JPY 160 (USD2). The most frequent but slowest service is JR Yamanote Line (1 departure per 3~5 minutes), the most infrequent but rapid service is JR Yokosuka Line (1 departure per 10~15 minutes).

Don't try to transit to Shinkansen at JR Shinagawa station. The Shinkansen stopping at Shinagawa station is Tokaido Shinkansen (東海道新幹線) serving between Tokyo and Osaka (or more western area of Japan), they don't go to Nagaoka nor Niigata.

2.2.2. Monorail – JR Line

Tokyo Monorail Co. provides a monorail between Haneda airport and Hamamatsu-cho. The time of travel is 16 minutes (by rapid) or 23 minutes (by local), the fee is JPY 470 (USD 5). The time table can be found at:

<http://www.tokyo-monorail.co.jp/english/timetable/>

1 departure per 5 minutes.

The monorail terminal at Hamamatsu-cho is conjunct with JR Hamamatsu-cho station. There is a shortcut ticket gate from JR to monorail, but there is no such from monorail to JR. You don't have to get out the terminal building, but you must exit the monorail ticket gate and enter JR ticket gate. See following picture of the structure.

From JR Hamamatsu-cho station to JR Tokyo station, JR Yamanote Line or JR Keihin-Tohoku Line is available. The time of travel is 6 minutes, the fee is JPY 150 (USD 2). 1 departure per 3~5 minutes.

On Saturday and Sunday, the connecting ticket between monorail and JR is available. The fee JPY 500 (USD 5) covers the travel from Haneda station to any JR station on JR Yamanote Line (including JR Tokyo station). This is the cheapest ticket from Haneda to JR Tokyo.

3. From JR Tokyo Station to JR Nagaoka Station via Shinkansen

At JR Tokyo station, there are several Shinkansen going to different places, you must choose Jouetsu Shinkansen (上越新幹線), going to Niigata (新潟). The timetable of Jouetsu Shinkansen is available at:

http://www.shinkansen.co.jp/jikoku_hyo/en/jyoetu/jdh_tokyo.html

You should be careful for:

- The station you should get off is Nagaoka (長岡), the 3rd last station, not the final destination.
- Some Shinkansen don't reach to Niigata, although the railway has no branch. These trains' final destinations are ski sites between Tokyo and Niigata. If you ride on these trains, you will have to wait next train going to Niigata at cold platform.
- You can ride Shinkansen at JR Ueno (上野) station too, but it is the 2nd stop of Jouetsu Shinkansen, so sometimes non-reserved sheets are fulfilled.

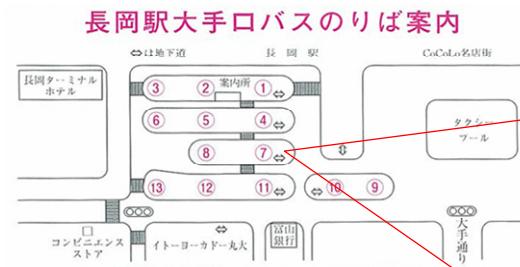

4. From JR Nagaoka Station to Nagaoka University of Technology

From JR Nagaoka station to Nagaoka University of Technology, the available public transport is only bus. The bus pool is located at the front of both exits of JR Nagaoka station. You must use west bus pool (no bus going to Nagaoka University of Technology stops at east bus pool), the bus stop number 7.
