1. No new characters are accepted for inclusion into the HKSCS.
2. The English to Traditional Chinese translation of the Unicode Terminology prepared by the Chinese Language Interface Advisory Committee has been posted onto the Unicode Consortium's web site at the link:

3. The Hong Kong Information Technology Federation (HKITF) has set up a Focus Group (previously the industry task force) which aims at drawing the awareness of its stakeholders, including representatives from banks and utilities, in respect of the latest development of the HKSCS and the adoption of the ISO/IEC 10646 standard. In June 2010, the Focus Group has published a whitepaper on the HKSCS support for Windows platform, which serves as a reference guideline for the community on future migration to the ISO/IEC 10646 standard.

The whitepaper is available at the following URL:
